

Collaborative Cost Reduction Report

Harness the innovative potential of your suppliers and drive down costs

Unlocking the next level of value

Collaborating with suppliers represents the method of innovation that is perhaps the least expensive, most practical, quickest to deliver and most likely to have a positive impact on your organisation's bottom line immediately.

How it works

Supplier collaboration programmes have been the cornerstone of cost saving strategies in the Aviation and Automotive manufacturing industries for decades.

SourceDogg provide a simple method for both:

- Capturing cost saving ideas that can be implemented immediately and,
- Identifying innovative suppliers that you can build strategic relationships with and kick-start a wide-ranging collaborative innovation process.

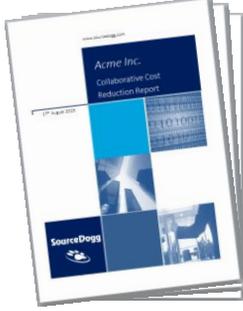

To begin this process SourceDogg asks your suppliers two important questions;

1. How much can they save you?
2. How will they do it?

SourceDogg then analyse the responses and identify which suppliers' suggestions should be focused on.

When to deploy

Whilst Supplier Collaboration Programmes represent a worthwhile and beneficial activity at any time, SourceDogg's report could also be of value during the early stages of New Product Development, as part of a general supplier performance review or for supplier vetting purposes.

Key Benefits:

- ✓ Identify innovative suppliers for future collaboration and strategic partnerships.
- ✓ Deepen relationships with those who know your business best.
- ✓ Leverage a quick and easy-to-access source of cost saving ideas.
- ✓ Steal a march on your competitors and become a preferred customer of industry leading suppliers through closer collaboration.
